The Program

The program focuses on developing language skills in the areas of listening, speaking, reading and writing at the beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. More complex grammar and vocabulary are introduced at each level. Emphasis is placed on social interactions and communication skills as well as an awareness of Acadian culture through its literature, traditions, music and art throughout the program.

Oral communication plays a very important role in the classroom, workshops and socio-cultural activities. The classroom setting will provide ample opportunities to interact and share opinions on various topics. You will gain confidence in communicating in everyday situations as well as in other settings requiring more complex language skills.

Organized activities are scheduled weekly, including formal instruction, workshops and socio-cultural activities, some of which take place on weekends.

Who Attends the Program?

The program is designed specifically for students and adults wishing to enhance their skills, enabling them to interact in everyday social situations requiring a higher level of French competence as well as for those wishing to enhance their reading and writing skills through Acadian literature and current topics.

A Customized Program that Fits your Educational Needs

This innovative French learning program focuses on individual needs while helping you to attain results quickly. You will be expected to engage fully in French in a variety of subjects, by being capable of applying grammatical rules, identifying main themes in newspaper articles, magazines, writing more effectively and clearly through complex sentence structures and communicating orally with confidence in a variety of social situations. Through this program you will also gain a greater understanding of the Acadian culture in a Canadian context through its literature, music, and history. At the end of the program, your level of competency as well as your level of confidence will significantly improve.

What to Expect?

Formal instruction is held every morning from Monday to Friday. Workshops and socio-cultural activities take place in the afternoons and evenings. Excursions to different regions and attractions of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island are organized on weekends. Some activities are optional and may require additional expenses.

Workshops will focus on topics such as Acadian culture and society, French in the workplace, conversation and many more. Social activities will include performances featuring Acadian artists, theatre and music, viewing of films (Acadian, Québécois and French) and other activities.

Placement Test

You will complete a placement test upon your arrival to assure that you are placed in one of our five competency levels.

Certificate of Attendance

You will receive a certificate of attendance upon successfully completing all requirements of the five weeks intensive immersion program.

Why Should You Attend?

Improving your French language skills will provide you with a wide variety of opportunities such as:

- being able to understand and speak French when travelling;
- access employment opportunities that require bilingual candidates;
- communicate better within a French social context.

The program will also:

- offer you new education options;
- enhance your cultural understanding by opening your world to new possibilities of communicating with others;
- allow you to better enjoy films, literature and music;
- increase your understanding of our Acadian roots.

The Pledge

In order to fully benefit from the program, students are expected to use French exclusively during their stay. This will be further explained in the information package that you will receive before the program starts.

Explore Program

The university also accepts bursary students through the Explore program. The Explore program is funded by Heritage Canada and is administrated by provincial coordinators. The program offers bursaries to students who wish to improve their competencies in French. For bursary students, Explore offers a bursary covering tuition fees for the course, instructional materials, meals, and accommodation.

EXPLORE
WITHOUT LIMITS

The City of Moncton and the Université de Moncton

City of Moncton

The Greater Moncton area is one of the fastest growing areas in Canada with a population of 140,000 of which one third are francophones. It is located in New Brunswick in the eastern part of Canada. Within 20 minutes of downtown Moncton, you will find long stretches of sandy beaches with the warmest waters north of Virginia. There are also a number of unique attractions nearby such as the Pays de la Sagouine, the Village Historique Acadien in Caraquet, the Rocks at Hopewell Cape, as well as Port Royal and Grand Pré in Nova Scotia, to name a few. Summer daytime highs sometimes reach over 30 °C (86 °F).

Université de Moncton

Created in 1963, the Université de Moncton has its roots in the many regional colleges that served the Acadian community for 140 years. The Moncton campus of the Université de Moncton is located in the south-eastern region of New Brunswick. It serves the French population of the entire Atlantic region as well as part of Québec, Ontario and the Western provinces. The Acadian culture thrives on campus through contributions from the academic, cultural, and sporting groups that form the university community.

A masters degree and a doctorate in French studies are among the many programs that are offered at the university. It has been offering programs in French as a second language for well over thirty years to different age groups from all across North America. Its top quality instruction and innovative approaches in the teaching of a second language make it one of the best programs offered in Canada. To find out more about the Université de Moncton, visit our web site at www.umoncton.ca.

Sports Complex - CEPS

The university has a large sports complex located on its Moncton campus. You can enjoy many activities such as swimming, badminton, tennis, racquetball, squash, volleyball, basketball or the indoor track or weights and exercise room.

Acadian Museum

The Acadian Museum was founded in 1886 at Saint Joseph's College in Memramcook, New Brunswick, by Father Camille Lefebvre. It reopened to the public in 1966 on the Université de Moncton, Moncton campus. It is known as the largest Acadian museum in the world and is among the oldest museums in Canada. Its collection is comprised of over 35,000 items. Among the collection: the original Acadian flag of 1884.

Louise et Reuben-Cohen Art Gallery

The Université de Moncton Art Gallery places emphasis on Acadian artists while also bringing world art to the region. Its collection contains over 700 works. It is located in the same building as the Acadian Museum.
